

PH 354: hw 4, problem 4

Alankar Dutta

March 1, 2019

Rejecting high frequency Fourier modes result in smoothing of a function. Higher the frequency of a Fourier mode, it corresponds to more rapidly changing component of a function. So rejecting more and more high frequency Fourier modes result in ignoring out the rapidly changing components of a function and result in more and more smoothing.